The Texas Department of Banking is hosting a free webinar on June 27, 2013. The goal of this webinar is to share examples and best practices on ways banks and organizations can educate communities regarding fraud prevention for senior citizens and consumer identity theft. We invite you to learn how to become more proactive in financial education at the convenience of your office or home.

Participants include financial institutions, government agencies, non-profit organizations, teachers, students, consumers and community leaders who are committed to or are interested in financial literacy. Participation is free; however registration is required to obtain webinar instructions.

If you have any questions, contact the Financial Education Coordinator via email or by telephone at (512) 475-1337.
